

United for Families: Fostering Community Stability Through Adult Education

For adults entering or reentering the workforce, strong literacy and communication skills are essential for career advancement and economic stability. Mastering English as a second language is a significant barrier for many in our region, and overcoming it empowers individuals to achieve their goals to unlock opportunities for growth and fosters a sense of community.

United Way of the Greater Lehigh Valley envisions communities where every person belongs and every person thrives. Together with partners like ProJeCt of Easton, Inc., we're improving the lives of over 175,000 people in our region by building thriving families and increasing community stability. ProJeCt connects participants to vital resources and equips people with the skills and knowledge necessary to break the cycle of poverty, achieve their aspirations and promote positive change in their lives.

In the heart of our community, individuals like Ricardo from Ecuador are not just learning English, they're overcoming barriers to realize their dreams. Determined to improve his language skills, Ricardo enrolled in the English as a Second Language (ESL) classes at ProJeCt. With the support of dedicated teachers, he not only enhanced his communication skills but also passed the G.E.D. test. After graduation from ProJeCt where he is one of the graduation speakers, he plans to continue working on his English and pursue courses in business management.

Join us as we champion organizations like ProJeCt, empowering individuals like Ricardo to thrive and realize their potential. Together, we're United for YOU at every step of the journey. Give today.
